TO THE FERTILIZER TRADE:

Gentlemen:

Five years ago this company determined to place at the disposal of Alabama's farmers "THE BEST FERTILIZERS OBTAINABLE" for producing the best crops and to make these fertilizers available at fair and reasonable prices.

AFTER FIVE YEARS of hardships—hard knocks, unfair competitive practices and unjust criticisms, we have emerged victorious. Comparative field tests-both private and public, have been made with our fertilizers by our customers, friends and competitors—and the results of these comparative field tests prove OBITUARY—JERNIGAN heaven knows best. We will miss wardrobe, was given by the counappointive boards for the present elective boards, it would be an easy set-up. Many farmers and others in the low income brackets who have struggled almost to the death during the past rew years to hold on to their property would be forced to let their land and homes sell for taxes should their assessments be hiked.

A gloom of sadness was cast over the entire community on Friday afternoon, January 20th, when the death angel visited the home heaven and it is certain that ultimately He will reign over all, but just now the world is in hands of the Wicked One (I. John 5:19).

A gloom of sadness was cast over the entire community on Friday afternoon, January 20th, when the death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Kelley and claimed for its own the spirit of Mrs. Mila Kelley Jernigan. Her death was a shock where she was so well known. Her many friends will miss her as she is gone from the formation on the building of sanitary toilets.

The club was somewhat disapropers to meet her in glory.

Her remains were laid to rest in Victoria cemetery. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. B. F. Pierce of Kinston.—Written by a friend, Mrs. Ethel Owens, for Mr. and Mrs. Ed Kelley.

A common criticism of the public schools is that they do not teach pupils to read and speak the English language correctly. Insofar as that is true, it is partly due to the fact so many children come from homes where the correct use of words is not understood or observed, and they find it difficult to learn a new way of speaking.

Children are especially sensitive to the accusation of being "stuck up" with which they are often met by their familiar out-of-school associates when they pronounce words differently from the common usage of their environments, or use the correct word among people who consistently use the wrong word.

Now the same charge is being made against great

ROFIT margins increase when production costs decrease. Potash lowers production costs, because it increases yields per acre and improves quality. Experiment stations have also shown that it' will control cotton rust and reduce wilt. This makes more cotton per acre and makes it easier to pick.

Make sure your cotton fertilizers supply enough potash to give the crop a good start and keep it growing vigorously throughout the season. Fertilizers applied at the rate of 400-600 pounds per acre should contain from 4 to 10% potash. If your cotton rusts, more can be added later in the growing season in a nitrogen-potash top-dresser.

Consult your county agent or experiment station about the fertility of your soil. See your fertilizer dealer. You will be sur-
